

List of: KNOWN INDIAN MONUMENTS IN AND NEAR HEBER UTAH

NAMES:

HBUM
PP

F6S

PICT.

HIST.

One Indian monument was a large rounded stone covered with petroglyphs located high on the second bluff on the right as one enters Provo Canyon. At its base was the start of the old McGraw dugway.*

Before the new (1988) four lane highway was to cut off its north west face, someone from BYU moved it into the Bertrand M Harrison Park on BUY Campus on East 800 North in Provo.*

Another such stone was located on the left bluff as one entered the Daniels Canyon. It also was removed by someone. However, other smaller Petroglyph markings remain along that ridge.

There are also arrowheads and flint beds and evidences of the Laguna Utes on the north side of the mouth of Provo River. (Information from Ray Marrott to R Raymond Green when they were in elementary school about 1926-1929.)

(Note: *Dr. RR Green has pictures of both these stones Thanks to Gary Sweat, Dan Tucker, and Stanley H Roberts who apprized Dr Green of them.)

- References: 1. Interview with Stanley H Roberts of Pleasant View in Provo, Utah.
2. Dan Tucker interview of Heber, Utah.
3. Gary Sweat interview of Heber, Utah.

Note: Started 1-22-88
Fine' 3-15-92

DR. R. R. GREEN
375 E. 2ND ST. No.
HEBER CITY, UTAH
84032

The Indian monument was a large pile of stones covered with a layer of earth. It was located on the right side of the road as one enters from the south. At its base was the start of the old Indian trail.

Before the war (1900) the Indian trail was to the left of the road. It was a narrow path, and it was used by the Indians to travel from the south into the Indian Reservation. It was a very old trail, and it was used by the Indians for many years.

Another trail was located on the left side of the road. It was a narrow path, and it was used by the Indians to travel from the north into the Indian Reservation. It was a very old trail, and it was used by the Indians for many years.

There are also several other trails in the area. They are all very old, and they were used by the Indians for many years. They are all located in the area of the Indian Reservation, and they are all very well known.

There are also several other trails in the area. They are all very old, and they were used by the Indians for many years. They are all located in the area of the Indian Reservation, and they are all very well known.

There are also several other trails in the area. They are all very old, and they were used by the Indians for many years. They are all located in the area of the Indian Reservation, and they are all very well known.

Buildings in Heber, Utah; which are on The Utah Historical Register:

Owners of Bldg: Indian Peace Treaty Monument

Location: SE Corner of Wasatch Co Court House
North Main St Heber Uta

Who built it: DUP When:

Historic Notes:

Need Pictures of:

Tabby
Tommy Tabby Grave
Peace Treaty Monument
Joseph Stacy Murdock Red Sandstone Home
Heber Bowery
Joseph S Murdock
Wm Madison Wall
Joseph Stacy Murdock

References:

Indian Peace Treaty Monument

#1 North Main St. - South

0119

2 of 2

Today
Tomb of Today
Peace Treaty Monument
rough sketch: think of Red Indian Helen, General to the 2nd floor with Indian rough sketch: think of